

An award winning year for Bedsonline

Receiving any kind of award is always a matter for celebration and provides great motivation to all those who are recognized. But when your business receives nine awards in just one year, some of them for the 4th year running, the message is loud and clear: keep up the good work.

Bedsonline has often been recognized for its incredible offering and service through a variety of different awards (and even more nominations). But over the last year the recognitions have rained down. This makes us exceptionally proud of all the team's hard work and achievements. But additionally it gives us enormous pride because many of these were 'readers choice' awards - thus reflecting just how close we are to our travel agencies.

At Bedsonline we focus solely on working with travel agencies. For us they are more than just clients, they are our partners in a long-term and win-win relationship developed over years of sharing mutual interests and expertise.

As we come close to the end of the year, we wanted to recap all of the awards received across all of the different markets in 2017. We want to recognize the dedication of our Bedsonline teams across the globe and thank all of our partners for their continued support.
